OVERVIEW

In this Happy Family Review we focused particularly on new changes and new actions for happiness in your family.

The Multi-lane Vision Journey is your new plan for the future, bringing together all these new ideas.

This plan will incorporate, and/or be further updated with, inputs from more advanced training in livelihoods (top lane) and leadership (bottom lane)

The Multilane Vision Highway is the same tool as the one done at the end of some Catalyst Workshops.

It is done first at an individual level.

It is also useful for a sense of solidarity between participants and movement-building if the new Vision, particularly on Happy Family lane is drawn on a very large series of flipcharts. With each participant coming up to draw an element of their vision, with people putting up hands if they agree. Colour-coding by gender.

This then gives numbers of women and men who now have a new vision. To compare with more rigorous quantification later on.

1 Vision and Multilane Framework

Multilane Framework: Draw a red vision sun circle at the top right. Draw a black circle at the bottom left. Draw 4 straight lines with 3 lanes to link the current circle to the vision.

Vision circle Look at your new ideas and fruits from the Happy Family Diamond and Gender Balance Challenge Action Tree and put in symbols for your new Happy Family vision in the middle lane. If you have new visions for livelihood/material improvements from livelihood strengthening training, put these also in the top lane. If you have new visions for social empowerment and leadership from leadership training, put these in the bottom lane.

Current circle: Look at your current achievements and fruits from the Happy Family Diamond and Gender Balance Challenge Action Tree and put in symbols for your current Family situation in the middle lane. Put your current livelihood situation in the top lane from earlier Vision Journeys and social empowerment/peer sharing achievements from your Empowerment Map in the bottom lane.
